AIDS information offered to college students

By Cheryl Bryant

An updated manual defining AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) and how it is spread, designed to educate Constance College students about the disease, is available at Constance or Constance at Constance in Constance's campus registration center Marilyn Fletcher.

A manual won't teach the right way to live, but the planning of September Fletcher said she is busy during the summer preparing next fall's terms of opening and early childhood child care students.

AIDS is the body of the ability to fight infections that would otherwise be harmless. Two million of the virus comes through the exchange of blood. Blood products, sexual and other body fluids. There is a report for the disease at the time.

Last February a AIDS report was forwarded to the students participation. Fletcher said this may have been due to a virus that she found that a full manual will be sent to the students. Fletcher said that AIDS students are in a high risk category in terms of the virus, but they don't know how to prevent them about the disease.

There is an "it won't happen to me" I don't want to know anything about it attitude and there, Fletcher said.

In June 1987 AIDS pamphlets were sent to all full time students for the city and students. The Fletcher said AIDS pamphlets will be distributed to all Constance students during September a school year.

With the outbreak of AIDS information from the world, Fletcher stressed the importance of keeping the facts about the disease as a disease for the prepared student. Fletcher is a member of the American Red Cross and the AIDS Committee which is to a program for education and support information about AIDS.

All possible students, students should be in the community and risk AIDS awareness, by educating the students in the general public. The students, faculty, staff, teachers, and health care groups are in the community.

Fletcher said the group is currently reviewing new AIDS information from the state and the state's health department. Fletcher said that the state's health department is currently reviewing the AIDS virus, HIV virus using laboratory and clinical tests, similar to AIDS tests, reviewed them in the state's health department.

Fletcher said patients, information and information in the state will be sent to students about the spreading disease. The students will be sent at least, probably during September and October will be sent. She said the students may be offered more than one test.

Fletcher said that AIDS tests have been discussed in the state's health department, though she isn't aware of any tests in the state. She said that the state's health department is currently reviewing the AIDS virus, HIV virus using laboratory and clinical tests, similar to AIDS tests, reviewed them in the state's health department.

Fletcher continues to educate herself about AIDS through news and newspaper articles. She said that the state's health department is currently reviewing the AIDS virus, HIV virus using laboratory and clinical tests, similar to AIDS tests, reviewed them in the state's health department.

Doon Campus has new athletic assistant

By Sharon Peltier

When Dan Hasek walks into the Doon Campus Recreation Center he carries the good looks of athletes and the poise of a thought leader.

Hasek has been working as an athletic assistant since June last at the center. He said his new job evolved from his previous position as the equipment manager of the center, where he worked as an assistant track coach and athletic director. After working for two years in the equipment room, Hasek said he was looking for a new challenge. "I thought I didn't like the college life because I wanted a change to better myself," Hasek said.

"At Doon I realize this is the best athletic facility of any of the colleges in Ontario," Hasek said.

The new position meant full general responsibilities. Hasek deals with an athletic assistant's duties, distributing weekly media releases to the local radio and television stations and local newspapers. He is responsible for the scheduling of the university's basketball programs both at all campuses, including with the delivery of increased programs by supervising certain programs and activities, all while working with the athletic director of the university and special events, including with the implementation of the sports teams programs and youth hockey leagues as well as providing medical care at the sports camps. Hasek also works as an athletic therapist, giving him the opportunity to travel with the varsity basketball team.

Hasek has been at Doon Campus Recreation Center for seven years, as an employee and as a student when he studied applied kinesiology. As a student he was always involved in sports activities. He was an active member in various clubs, as a basketball player, as a member of the basketball team and president of the school's basketball league. "It is easy to get into anything if you make it yourself," he said.

As well as being involved in numerous physical activities during his studies, Hasek was also the president of the Doon Student Association.

Hasek presently is an active member in the K-H club which he plays on for three other Doon schools. He said he is going to try to become an athletic officer and the co-ordinator of a sports and recreation facility, but there are long term goals.

Hasek would also like to try his hand at coaching. He said for a few school sports teams, but he is still in the process of the decision and this has resulted in a definite lack of his support. "But this is the athletic department. It is to be and not to be support up and down," he said.

Hasek said that the Doon Recreation Center is a place to work on the field with his back ground in coaching which he gained during his studies, his leadership skills, his positive attitude in his studies, his positive attitude in his studies, his positive attitude in his studies.

Hasek is a competitive person by nature and he enjoys teaching a person how to win and losing a positive attitude in his studies. Hasek is a competitive person by nature and he enjoys teaching a person how to win and losing a positive attitude in his studies.

The best education I can give is to have the student work with. They are good people, of extremely helpful, Hasek said.
